REPLOGLE LOW-BIDDER FOR BYPASS JOB

Sir Winston Nearing His 81st Birthday

LONDON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill will observe his 81st birthday tomorrow.

In the seven months since he bowed to age and resigned as prime minister, Churchill has made only one appearance in the House of Commons, where he spent more than half a century. That was to be sworn in after the May elections as a Conservative backbencher, an ordinary member of Parliament.

But outside the glare of world attention, the veteran statesman has kept busy.

He spent two months this fall vacationing on the French Riviera. Much of his time there was devoted to writing and painting. Now in the peaceful solitude of his country home, Churchill dictates and polishes a few more pages of his book on the history of the English-speaking people. It is to be published next year.

Dressed in a floppy hat and the siren suit he made famous, he walks along the paths of his estate in Kent with Rufus, his poodle, dancing excitedly at his side.

Churchill is said to keep in close touch with current events, but his mood seems to be that of a man who feels he has a right to relax and in a detached sort of way watch history unfold. He gives the impression of deliberately trying to avoid any appearance of having a say in state policy, a right that might normally fall to him as a respected elder statesman.

Biggest Ohio Tree Located In County

Sycamore 32' 10" In Circumference Stands On Foresman-Wright Farm

By DAVE BROWN
Herald Staff Writer

The Foresman-Wright farm, located 1½ miles south of South Bloomfield, was honored today as site of the largest tree in Ohio and perhaps the largest sycamore tree in the United States.

Situated 200 feet east of the Scioto River and approximately one mile west of Route 23, the tree stands on the 500-acre farm owned and operated in partnership by George Foresman, president of the First National Bank, and Lawrence Wright.

The state has been conducting a "big tree hunt" for several months. This is the largest tree, as far as circumference is concerned, reported so far.

Several dignitaries were expected to be on hand this afternoon, including John Vorhees, congressman from the 12th district. A Columbus paper erroneously listed

Ted Brown Plans Seeking Reelection

COLUMBUS (AP)—Secretary of state Ted W. Brown, 49, today said he will seek reelection to a fourth term, declaring he will "continue to devote special attention toward efficient and honest elections."

A former Clark County recorder, Brown may have opposition for the primary nomination in the primary election next May. Edward J. Hummel of Cincinnati, who formerly held the post, has said he will try for a comeback.

Cassady Awarded Heisman Trophy

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University announced this afternoon that Howard (Hopalong) Cassady has been named the winner of the Heisman Award of the New York Athletic Club.

The Heisman Award, made annually to the young man the New York club considers the outstanding football player from the standpoint of player ability, scholarship and sportsmanship, is considered the top national award for college gridgers.

Gov. Frank Lausche as attending the event here.

THE HUGE sycamore, rooted in rich bottom pasture, measures 32 feet-10 inches at a point 4½ feet from the ground. Its height is estimated to be 80 feet and its spread 102 feet.

Two trunks split off the main one approximately five feet off the ground. No estimate has been made of the tree's approximate age.

Mrs. Wright wrote a letter to state officials telling them of the tree following an article in The Herald last August. The officials, after checking the measurements, confirmed that the tree is the present "grand daddy of them all."

Wright has managed the farm for 11 years. The Wrights have two children — a daughter, Rosemary, who is in nursing training in Grant Hospital in Columbus, and a son, Bob, who attends Ohio State University.

THE WRIGHTS expressed surprise when told the sycamore is the largest reported yet.

They said they never paid too much attention to the tree, merely observing that "it is a pretty large one."

Ohio also claims title to several other national champion trees. These include:

A boxelder in Fulton County. A Kentucky coffeetree near Canal Winchester on the property of Mrs. Homer H. Barnhart. An American elm, (the Rathbone Elm) located near Marietta.

A CHINKAPIN OAK, on the campus of Miami University. An Eastern red oak in Ashtabula County. A pin oak, located in Lake County. An Eastern redbud, also in Ashtabula County.

There are more than 120 varieties of trees in Ohio.

Most Of U.S. Getting Taste Of Winter

CHICAGO (AP)—The winter season is three weeks away, but it feels much like January weather in three-quarters of the nation today.

Icy blasts, with snow and strong winds brought unseasonable temperatures to areas from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast and over much of the South.

The cold air spread southward through the Gulf and Atlantic states and readings were from 20 to 30 degrees lower than yesterday morning. They were in the 20s in the interior sections of the Gulf states except in Florida where they were in the 50s and 60s. It was freezing in Mobile, Ala., and a shiver 22 in Atlanta.

Snowy streets in many parts of the cold belt slowed traffic. Heavy snow fell in wide sections of New York state, with a two-foot fall reported in suburbs of Buffalo. The fall in the lower Great Lakes region measured 1 to 3 inches. Lighter falls were reported in the northern Plains, parts of the Great Lakes region and in the Ohio Valley.

It was still cold in the Midwest. International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border, had a rise in temperature from 2 below to 24 above. Chicago, after its coldest day of the season yesterday, 3 above, warmed to 19 this morning. But there was no warming in Montana where it was 25 below zero in Glasgow.

Teenage Girls In Akron Face Murder Count

Juvenile Court Stated To Bind Youths To Grand Jury In Slaying

AKRON (AP)—Five teen-age girls who left an elderly matron dead behind them in an escape from the Summit County detention home Sunday night were back in custody today, and the prosecutor was preparing to seek murder indictments against them.

Prosecutor Alva J. Russell said Juvenile Court would bind the girls to the grand jury which can return indictments as if the minors were adults.

Upon conviction, the penalty would be death unless the jury recommended mercy, in which case it would be life imprisonment, with parole possible after 20 years.

The last of the five, Mrs. Zelda De Cost, 16, surrendered last night after hiding coatless in cellars in and near the detention home in below freezing weather. Two others surrendered a few hours after the escape and two were captured.

YESTERDAY, as police and juvenile authorities questioned her, Mirl Cain, 15, told her story of the escape that cost the life of Mrs. Eula Bonham, 59. Officers quoted the girl as follows:

"I was supposed to hold her mouth so she couldn't scream. But I couldn't because she had cold cream on and her skin was slippery. Then four of us knocked her down on a bed and I tied her hands and feet.

"Before we left, I hit her twice over the head with a shoe because she was still struggling. Then I dropped the shoe and ran."

Mrs. Bonham was preparing to go to bed when one of the girls asked her to bring a scarf to their second floor dormitory. When the matron unlocked their door to hand them the scarf, the five attacked her. They fled through a cellar window.

By the time another matron found her body, Mrs. Bonham had died of strangulation. Her arms and legs had been bound with belts from the girls' dresses, and an ammonia-soaked washrag had been stuffed in her mouth.

Margaret Nicholson, 15, surrendered a few hours after the escape along with Cain.

The other girls involved, Ruth Beichler, 17, and Shirley Shingler, 15, were captured when a service station attendant tipped off deputies that they had locked themselves in a rest room.

The two had hitch-hiked to Cleveland and back to Akron with a truck driver.

McCarthy's Nod To Ex-Con Stalled By Postal Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman for the Postoffice Department says that, contrary to an announcement by the office of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Thomas Miller, a three-time ex-convict, "has not been appointed" acting postmaster of Appleton, Wis.

Appleton is McCarthy's home town. He had recommended the appointment of Miller, 57, to succeed Stephen Balliet, who reaches the mandatory retirement age of 70 tomorrow.

"The whole matter of an appointment is under review by the department," the spokesman said. Miller, a former tavern keeper, was convicted in 1931 of violating federal prohibition laws and in 1946 and 1950 of violating Wisconsin gambling laws.

So did passersby. Jacob salvaged $38, the thief netted about $175 and passersby got the rest.

Ike Chuckling?

GOP Chief's Speculation On 1956 Brings White House 'No Comment'

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower takes it relatively easy today — chuckling, more likely than not, at a fresh spate of speculation about his second term intentions.

This long-simmering question boiled up again yesterday when Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, fresh from a conference with the chief executive, offered with a broad smile this "personal opinion."

Eisenhower will run again "if he feels he is able."

The White House itself had nothing further to say, though Hall's statement obviously was cleared in advance. The chairman conferred with Eisenhower's press secretary James C. Hagerty before and after his 45-minute meeting with the President. Hagerty sat impassive beside Hall when the statement was made.

The White House has consistently underlined the chief executive's seemingly steady recovery from his Sept. 24 heart attack.

EISENHOWER planned to visit his downtown Gettysburg office today although he had no callers or unusual official business on his schedule.

He moved to settle the "WOC" controversy yesterday by issuing an executive order setting "high standards of ethical conduct" for persons serving the government "without compensation."

This order, affecting also paid-by-the-day experts and consultants, spells out a policy directive laid down by the last Congress.

It was issued after Capitol Hill Democrats raised charges that some WOCs, who used to be known as dollar-a-year-men, were serving their own business interests while working for the government.

Hagerty said he understood the new regulations covered such cases as that of Adolphe H. Wenzell, who became a central figure in the still re-echoing Dixon-Yates controversy.

Democrats questioned Wenzell's role as a parttime adviser to the Budget Bureau and his help in drafting financing plans for the proposed private power project while working for the banking house which ultimately handled the financing.

The effect was to refuse to pay cancellation charges to Dixon-Yates, which could amount to several million dollars.

The new executive order applies to WOCs and other experts advising the government under the Defense Production Act—the legislation under which the great majority of them are engaged.

It requires, among other things, that each WOC employ file for publication in the Federal Register a statement listing all the businesses with which he has had any connection within 60 days of his appointment. This includes any stocks or other financial interests.

Policy Debate Truce Offered

GOP Solon Urges GOP To Taper Accusations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) said today if Republicans expect Democrats "to refrain from using foreign policy as a political football, we have got to make sure that we Republicans don't kick it around ourselves."

The deadlock at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference, from which Secretary of State Dulles returned 12 days ago, has prompted numerous top Democrats to lash out at his handling of foreign policy.

Wiley proposed that both political parties adopt a "code of self-restraint" in 1956 campaign discussion of international affairs. His statement was given as Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler offered the Republicans a conditional "truce" on the issue.

Butler said yesterday Democrats would agree to keep partisanship out of foreign policy discussion if President Eisenhower would order the GOP to drop the word "peace" from next year's campaign slogans.

At the same time, Butler referred to what he called "reckless and slanderous attacks" by the Republicans in 1953 on former President Harry S. Truman and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

WILEY SAID it is regrettable that some Democrats "have given strong indications that foreign policy may become a political football."

"I am hoping," he said, "that the Democratic candidates as well as other Democratic leaders who have in the past shown commendable leadership in striving for non-partisan foreign policy will see the danger of this trend toward partisan tactics on this all-important issue."

Calling in turn for Republican restraint, he added:

"If Republicans are to conduct reckless personal attacks, that will only invite Democratic retaliation and the vicious circle will go on and on."

2,000 Traffic Deaths Predicted

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's Department of Highway Safety warned today traffic deaths on the state's highways may reach 2,000 by the end of the year.

Injuries alone may climb to 68,999, and if the present trend continues, safety experts said, a total of 140,000 traffic crashes will be reported before the year is out.

The department listed 1,407 traffic deaths from January through September this year, an increase of 5 per cent over the 1,338 deaths in the same period of 1954.

Famed Paper May Be Freed By Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's famed newspaper La Prensa, silenced and enslaved by dictator Juan D. Peron in an act condemned around the world, is on the verge of being returned to its exiled owner-editor.

Provisional President Pedro Aramburu in his first meeting with the press last night did not say outright his government would give La Prensa back to Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz. But he said his regime had "resolved" the celebrated La Prensa case and that this would "repair the outrage committed against this great newspaper."

There appeared no other interpretation of his words than that control of the paper would shift from the General Confederation of Labor (CGT) back to the Paz family which since it founded La Prensa in 1869 had built it into one of the Western Hemisphere's leading journals.

Peron closed the outspoken newspaper more than four years ago and handed it over to CGT, the big worker's organization with which he hammered out his dictatorship. La Prensa was transformed from a respected independent journal to just another rubber stamp for the Peronista line.

Aramburu's press secretary Adolfo Lanus said the decree, which was expected to declare the seizure of La Prensa unconstitutional, had not been completed. He added, however, it might be finished in time for the President to sign today or tomorrow.

Inlaw Of Peron Faces Accusation

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Juan D. Peron's mother-in-law and Antonio J. Benitez, former president of the Argentine Chamber of Deputies, were charged today with embezzlement by Judge Abel Reyna.

Mrs. Juana Ibarburen De Duarte has been living in exile in Ecuador with her daughters, sisters of the late Eva Peron. Benitez is in prison in Buenos Aires. They are accused of receiving money from a merchant to relieve him of a fine for excessive profits.

Official Contract To Be Awarded In Two Weeks

Local Firm Enters Bid Of $3,161,717; Bridge Job Separate

The C. F. Replogle Co. of Circleville is the apparent low-bidder on the Route 23 bypass project here.

Replogle entered a bid of $3,161,717.48, according to the contract sales division of the state highway department. This compares with the $3,429,500 estimate by the state.

Bids were opened in Columbus this morning. However, official awarding of the contract will be held up for nearly two weeks while the bid is being checked, a standard procedure. Replogle's bid was the lowest announced.

The project includes a multi-million dollar "cloverleaf" interchange on the western limits of Circleville plus approaching roadways. The big project will stretch around Circleville's western edge, from a point just north of Bell Siding on Route 23 to a point just south of the city limits, a distance of more than five miles.

ACCORDING to local highway officials, this will be the largest single road project (in money) to be constructed in Pickaway County in modern times.

As a part of the whole bypass picture, a contract has officially been awarded for construction of a new bridge over the Scioto River, west of the "cloverleaf", to the W. M. Brode Co. of Newcomers-town. The new bridge will cost $465,674.20, according to the estimate by the firm, and will replace the old one built in 1881. Completion date for the bridge is June 30, 1957.

The bypass project is one of the few remaining links in plans for the 90-mile four-lane of Route 23 from Portsmouth to Columbus. It is scheduled to be finished Nov. 30, 1957.

The bypass proposal stirred much controversy before it was finally approved here. Some opponents of the project claimed it would take business away from Circleville. Those who favored it said that it would take unnecessary traffic off Court St., and reduce noise and accidents.

Only recently, city council was (Continued on Page Two)

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's Department of Highway Safety warned today traffic deaths on the state's highways may reach 2,000 by the end of the year.

Injuries alone may climb to 68,999, and if the present trend continues, safety experts said, a total of 140,000 traffic crashes will be reported before the year is out.

The department listed 1,407 traffic deaths from January through September this year, an increase of 5 per cent over the 1,338 deaths in the same period of 1954.

Official Contract To Be Awarded In Two Weeks

Local Firm Enters Bid Of $3,161,717; Bridge Job Separate

The C. F. Replogle Co. of Circleville is the apparent low-bidder on the Route 23 bypass project here.

Replogle entered a bid of $3,161,717.48, according to the contract sales division of the state highway department. This compares with the $3,429,500 estimate by the state.

Bids were opened in Columbus this morning. However, official awarding of the contract will be held up for nearly two weeks while the bid is being checked, a standard procedure. Replogle's bid was the lowest announced.

The project includes a multi-million dollar "cloverleaf" interchange on the western limits of Circleville plus approaching roadways. The big project will stretch around Circleville's western edge, from a point just north of Bell Siding on Route 23 to a point just south of the city limits, a distance of more than five miles.

As a part of the whole bypass picture, a contract has officially been awarded for construction of a new bridge over the Scioto River, west of the "cloverleaf", to the W. M. Brode Co. of Newcomers-town. The new bridge will cost $465,674.20, according to the estimate by the firm, and will replace the old one built in 1881. Completion date for the bridge is June 30, 1957.

The bypass project is one of the few remaining links in plans for the 90-mile four-laning of Route 23 from Portsmouth to Columbus. It is scheduled to be finished Nov. 30, 1957.

The bypass proposal stirred much controversy before it was finally approved here. Some opponents of the project claimed it would take business away from Circleville. Those who favored it said that it would take unnecessary traffic off Court St., and reduce noise and accidents.

Only recently, city council was

Commies Wrong 93 Pct. Of Time

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—The Communists were wrong 93 per cent of the time in accusing the U. N. command of air violations over the Korean armistice line, the Allies said today.

Of 486 Red air violation charges during the 2½ year armistice, 456 have proven false, U. S. Navy Capt. David L. Roscoe Jr. told North Korean Col. Li Yong at the 144th meeting of Allied and Red secretaries of the Joint Military Armistice Commission.

Pole is an uninhabited wasteland with a temperature over minus 40 in the middle of summer, so you can imagine the hardships that Admiral Byrd's brave men encountered when they tried to cook dinner, take a bath or find a taxi. It's too bad that today red-blooded boys like myself have to get our Adventure from watching John Wayne movies because fellows like Magellan and Balboa hogged all the Exploring Business. Think what fun it would be to come back from a vacation and casually remark that you had discovered the Pacific Ocean or South America. Or even a parking space.

French Premier On Edge Of Fatal Bailout

Faure Believed Slotted To Receive Ouster In Vote By Parliament

PARIS (AP)—Backed in a corner after nine months of adroit parliamentary maneuvering Premier Edgar Faure prepared to stake his government's life today on a vote of confidence on his demand for early elections.

The general expectation at the National Assembly was that Faure would be voted out.

The resulting Cabinet crisis was expected to last several weeks, with the next Cabinet to be only a temporary team to arrange for election of the new Assembly in the spring.

A Spring vote could be billed as a compromise between the December date Faure sought and the balloting which otherwise would come in June.

Officially the vote on the question of the Assembly's work schedule for this week. The House's Agenda Committee recommended that it debate a motion by Francois Mitterrand, major supporter of former Pierre Mendes-France, that Faure's government is no longer capable of leading the country.

Faure called for cancellation of this debate so that discussion of the proposed new electoral law can go ahead without interruption.

MEDES-FRANCE, like Faure a member of the Radical Socialist party and his supporters want to delay the elections to give them time to marshal the voters behind the former premier.

Faure already has lost on his original request for elections in December. His last proposal was for a date in late January but that also seemed doomed.

Explanation Of 'Security' Plan Is Asked

Senate Probers Seek Precise Definition Of 'Risk' In Army Setup
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators sought today a precise explanation of how the Army will handle security risk cases under the terms of a new directive.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.) of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights called Jerome D. Fenton, Defense Department security officer, for questioning on ramifications of the order, issued 10 days ago.

Fenton told the subcommittee last week details of the order were not then completely clear to him. In general the directive instructs that an effort be made to spot potential security risks before they are drafted for Army service. If found, they are exempted from induction, and thus spared the stigma of a less than honorable discharge for preservice conduct.

Chairman Philip Young of the Civil Service Commission testified yesterday that three of every four persons fired by the government in cases involving "serious questions of security" never are told they are suspected risks.

THEY EMBRACE a group, he said, who are fired for cause (in some cases for drunkenness) and against whom security risk accusations indicating possible subversion also have been made.

Young, who keeps the administration's official box score of security risk firings and resignations, said he combines into a single total the number ousted as down-right security risks and those fired for nonrisk reasons but against whom there also is a backlog of other derogatory information.

Hennings has denounced the practice as misleading.

Young's newest box score listed firings of 3,685 persons between May 28, 1953, when the program began, and last Sept. 30. This was 99 more than were listed in the period through June 30.

He said 704 persons were "terminated because of security questions within the purview" of President Eisenhower's directive, in the 12 months ended Sept. 30.

Of them, he said, 531 were never charged formally with being security risks or notified they were suspected, while being dropped on other grounds. He said about the same percentage could be applied fairly to the entire 3,685 cases.

He said he doesn't claim that all were security risks, and that about the only time he uses that term is by inadvertence, as he did repeatedly at the hearing.

"Frankly," Young said, "I don't know the definition of a security risk."

Herald Begins Special Yule Shopping Aid

Latest reports on sales tax receipts for this district show that the Christmas buying boom began in Pickaway County several weeks ago—but store clerks indicate the spending spree would be still greater "if the customers had some way to help them find what they want."

Typical of the comments from the men and women who serve the potential buyers was the following:

"An awful lot of people are buying ahead of — probably more so than we've ever seen before — but a lot more are still having trouble making up their minds. They'll

New Postal Ruling Lets You Send Letter Inside Package

Circleville's acting postmaster Charles Walters today drew public attention to an important change in postal regulations, permitting a letter to travel inside a package—providing the sender pays the postage on the personal communication.

The change, already in effect, will make it legal to send a personal message under the wrappings with a Christmas gift, Walters pointed out. However, he emphasized that the sender must note—on the outside of the package—that a letter is enclosed, and must pay postage on the letter. This charge will be in addition to the stamps to cover the parcel post.

The new regulations were announced by the post office department in Washington, D. C. An explanatory bulletin arrived at Walters' office a short time later.

A welcome revision of the rules

Kiwanis Plays Host To Tiger Gridders

Players, managers and coaches of the Circleville High School football team were guests of the local Kiwanis Club Monday.

Steve Brudzinski, head football coach, gave a brief resume on the 1955 season. He then introduced Dick Banks, varsity quarterback, who read a short story, "What Is A Football Player?"

The main speaker was Gordon Carson, head of the engineering department at Ohio State University. Using "Looking Into The Future" as his topic, Carson said that there are "new frontiers" yet to be developed, such as: power and energy, highways and parking space, communications, travel, foods, crops and fabrics.

Carson declared there is a lack of students in engineering schools. He strongly urged young men and women to enter this profession.

Israel Lashes Britain, Soviet

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Premier David Ben-Gurion accused Britain and Russia today of pursuing policies "liable to bring about the destruction of the state of Israel."

He claimed in parliament that arms supplied to Egypt by Britain and Russia "will be used only against Israel."

Ben-Gurion said Egypt's goal is "the annihilation of Israel" and added, "both Britain and the Soviet Union are aware of Colonel Nasser's political aims."

Neighbors Find Woman Dead Of Asphyxiation

An elderly Tarlton woman, Mrs. Emma Pence, died from accidental asphyxiation Monday night when she apparently forgot to light a stove after turning on the gas.

Dr. H. H. Swope, acting Pickaway County coroner, ruled on the cause of death after viewing the body. Mrs. Pence was 78 and a widow. Her husband, Sidney, died nearly 12 years ago.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said that neighbors smelled gas in Mrs. Pence's residence and investigated. They found her sitting in a chair in front of the stove, the sheriff said.

The last person to see her alive, according to the report, is a brother who visited her Monday at 3 p. m. The body was found at nearly 8 p. m.

MRS. PENCE, who only recently moved into her new place, lived next to a hardware store owned by Russell Jones. She was born in Hocking County.

The only other survivor listed is a daughter, Mary Alsbaugh of Cincinnati.

1956 Dog Tags Going On Sale

It's just about that time of year again when they are going to begin looking for dogs running around without a license.

Pickaway County Auditor Verna O'Hara issued a reminder today that dog tags for 1956 will go on sale Thursday. And they must be purchased—if you value your dog—no later than January 20.

Price of tags, for both male and female, is $2 each. A kennel license costs $10.

The tags can be purchased at the auditor's office and in the surrounding communities of the county.

Replogle Is Active In Meeting Plans

Among the leading heavy and highway construction contractors who will play an active part in the 37th annual meeting of the Ohio Contractors Association is C. F. Replogle of Circleville. The meeting will be held next Monday and Tuesday in Columbus.

Replogle is a member of the specifications committee and a member of the board of trustees of the organization.

In announcing the scope of the meeting, which is expected to attract 600 members, Harry B. Fenton, president of the association, said the two-day session will cover every phase of the heavy and highway construction business, with past records being cited.

"We of the highway producing industry are doing our utmost to cooperate with the public and government agencies in building adequate highways," Fenton said. "Ohio is fortunate that we have the men with ability and equipment on the scene, and as each project is approved we are ready to transform the plans from the drawing board to reality."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The lack of schoolteachers is one of the biggest dilemmas before the President's White House Conference on Education, which is meeting here for four days.

Will higher salaries get more men and women into teaching and keep them teaching? That's one of the possible solutions. The Fund for the Advancement of Education doubts it's the only one.

The fund, a private organization doing research in this field, points to another reason why more people don't make teaching a career: promotion is too slow and is not based on performance but on time served and credits accumulated.

What kind of salaries do teachers get? And how many teachers are needed? The following information has been put together from statistics gathered by the fund, the National Education Assn. and the U.S. Office of Education.

Right now in public and private schools — elementary, high and college—there are about 37,900,000 students. In 10 years the number will be an estimated 51,502,000.

More teachers will be needed not only to take care of the increase in the number of students but to replace teachers who quit for better jobs in private business or women who quit to be married and stay home.

S. M. Brownell, commissioner of the U.S. Office of Education, estimates there was a shortage of 141,300 qualified teachers this year.

But the number of college graduates has been going down. They reached an all-time high in 1950 when 434,000 were graduated. In 1955 the number was 285,000. They were of the generation born in the depression. Births picked up during and after the war. The number of college graduates in the future will increase.

But the President's committee on the White House conference says that only 86,696 of those graduated from college in 1955 were qualified to teach in grammar and high schools.

The fund says that to "maintain the present over-all pupil-teacher ratio, the schools will have to enlarge their teaching staffs more in the next 10 years than in the previous 35. The colleges and universities will have to add more teachers in the next 15 years than in all previous history combined."

There are now about 1,110,600 qualified people teaching but about 7½ per cent of the teachers drop out of the profession every year. They have to be replaced in addition to the extra teachers needed to handle the increased school enrollments.

The national average of teachers' pay in 1954-55 for grammar schools was $3,614 and for high schools, $4,194. The average for both combined was $3,816.

The range was wide between one state and another. New York paid the highest average grammar school teacher salary — $4,700; Mississippi paid the lowest — $1,880.

For high school teachers California ($5,400) and New York ($5,375) paid the highest average salary. Mississippi and Arkansas, paying an average of $2,400 each, were at the bottom of the list.

Langer Picked By Newest Party

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Senator Langer (R-ND) has been chosen as the candidate of a new national political party, the Pioneer party, for President of the United States.

Chosen as a candidate for vice-president was Burr McCloskey, Chicago, executive secretary of the American Rally, the sponsoring group which describes itself as a nonpartisan educational group.

The candidates were chosen by 30 delegates at a two-day conference. The delegates adopted a platform calling for economic reform, a return to constitutional government, a "golden rule" foreign policy and free health service. The platform urged demilitarization and "repudiation or war and conscription."

Highways that "breathe," using flexible corrugated steel culverts which give under heavy loads but then spring back into shape, are now joining America's growing road network.

Local Christmas Seal Program Moving Toward Goal Of $5,000

Sale of the familiar Christmas Seals this year in Pickaway County is aimed at a goal of $5,000.

The drive—to raise funds for free chest x-rays and other important services—opened a week ago, and contributions already total $1,172. The campaign in behalf of the famed Yuletide stickers is conducted entirely by mail and has no house-to-house solicitation.

Sale of the seals is the only support of the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association. The association is not a member of the Pickaway County Community Fund and holds no tag days or benefit events.

The annual, mail-only solicitation seeks funds for the following services:

FREE chest x-rays to detect tuberculosis in its earliest stages and thus make recovery possible. Rehabilitation programs to readjust former patients to their normal way of living.

Research work against tuberculosis on a nationwide scale.

The Christmas Seals have for many years been a traditional part of Yuletide letters and package-wrapping. Anyone desiring seals can obtain them by calling Evelyn Hafey at 857-1.

The Christmas Seal x-ray mobile unit will be in Circleville December 9 and 10. Free x-rays will be available to the public on those two days.

The local TB association pays for these x-rays through the donations now being received.

LEADERS of the Christmas Seal campaign point out that Pickaway County, unlike many others, does not have a qualified health department, and consequently is not eligible for the service of the Ohio State units which take miniature x-rays free. The local association pays approximately one dollar for each of the x-rays.

In the past three years, more than 8,290 x-rays have been taken and paid for by the local association.

Hoff, assistant manager of a farmer cooperative in Mondamin, Iowa, was awarded his weight in dollars as first prize in a nationwide cattle judging contest.

Jurors Denied Permission To Keep Notes

CLEVELAND (AP)—Jurors, snowed under by almost half a million words of testimony at the trial of 11 alleged Communist leaders, asked yesterday for court permission to take notes.

But U. S. District Judge Charles J. McNamee told them: "The courts have held almost uniformly that jurors should not be permitted to take notes during the trial."

However the judge said he would grant a request to provide the jury with a typewritten list of the defendants' names. In their fifth week of trial, the defendants are charged with conspiring to teach and advocate the forcible overthrow of the government.

The government's fifth FBI witness, David Whitney Garfield Jr., 32, of Canfield, Ohio, said in cross examination that security measures taken by the Communist party to conceal membership in 1947 and 1948 were prompted by fear of "violence" action.

A former Red leader in Youngstown and Canton, Garfield admitted under questioning that the manner the government was "just speculation." But he added: "We did state certain general ideas—that the capitalist state would have to be done away with."

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

Not so long ago we tried to bring out what a hectic time some of the pioneers of Pickaway County had in getting here. After they were here — what then?

Some of these had prepared for this great adventure, methodically, and realistically, for they were aware they were leaving a life of a fair number of comforts for one with dangers and discomforts, yet they believed it was one of promise. Their well-prepared plans provided that the men of the family go ahead, in the spring-time, and locate the land, clear a spot, and build a cabin so that it would be ready for the family the next year.

Sometimes a crop was planted, too, but more often the ground was prepared for planting the following year. This meant plenty of hard work—cutting down the trees and clearing the land of brush. Some of the timber was used to build the cabin, but most of it was placed in piles and burned.

Quite often preparation for the first year's crop consisted only in the girdling of the trees in the area to be planted so that, the following year, the trees would not leaf out and shade the crops planted in the virgin soil below.

IN THE late fall, leaving someone to look after things, our pioneer settler would return to his old home and then the following spring bring his family and what worldly possessions he could carry, to their new Ohio home. These kind of folks were the self-reliant, the self-sufficient ones — asking quarter from no one, yet they were always ready and willing to help those who needed a lift.

Then there were others who came, less adaptable, less dependable and with very little foresight. Whole families moved in with no preparations or thoughts of the future—they believed they were entering a land of "milk and honey" and if they couldn't make the grade, they would be properly "kept".

These irresponsibles entered the wilderness with no regard for the time of the year and, oftentimes, arrived during bitter winter weather, with no shelter awaiting them. Many tried to live in makeshift lean-tos, made of branches covered with bark.

You can imagine what protection these gave against the weather, the wild animals and hostile Indians. In some regions, the Indians were quite friendly—in those places the whites had been sensible enough to treat the native people kindly.

Haven't you often wondered, in reading your history, why it was that when Indians killed white men, it was "cold-blooded murder," but when white men murdered red men, it was usually chronicled as an outstanding military success?

Some of those who came—thinking it was a great task—soon had enough and hurried back to the land from whence they had started. But many stuck it out and, with the help and encouragement of those already adapted to their new life, soon became sturdy and self-reliant men and women of the frontier.

DID YOU KNOW that it was the Swedish immigrants, who settled in the Delaware Valley, that introduced into this country the building of log houses? The Pilgrims, who settled in New England, never thought of cutting the timber which was all about them, and building for themselves substantial places to live—but instead, tried to exist, in a climate quite rugged, in flimsy shacks and even in damp caves and dugouts. No wonder there was so much suffering and so many of those who landed on Plymouth Rock died the first year!

Even though the pioneer log cabin was hardly more than four walls and a roof, it required skills and know-how to put one up. It was hard work, yet the men got a big kick out of it—for it gave them a chance to show off their skill with the ax and to display their strength. For the women, too, it was quite an occasion—for it gave them a chance to go visiting and see their neighbors.

But it was also hard work for them for they were expected to furnish plenty of food for men with big appetites. The victuals had to be prepared at their own homes and carried to the scene of the house-raising.

The home of the immigrant was primitive, still it could not be said the log cabin of the pioneer made a cheerless home. On the fly-leaf of a family Bible, once belonging to a veteran of the Revolutionary War, are these words:

"The Northwest Territory is delightful for a home. 'My footsteps always gladly hasten homeward; and when I pull the string and open the door, the delicious odor of roasting game and of cornbread, meets with smiles of hungry approbation. And with kisses for the children and blessings for a good wife, who could ask for more or a better home.'"

Audiences Urged Be More Critical

CINCINNATI (P)—Actor Raymond Massey criticized audiences for not criticizing the theater more severely.

The public, he said last night, should demand that the theater "behave itself."

"The public used to come to the theater to cast off the day's cares," Massey said. "They were exacting in their demands. They did not come to get a slice of life."

He also criticized playwrights for not knowing the difference between editorial writing and play writing. The theater used to know how to enchant people."

Massey spoke at a budget-raising program sponsored by the Christ Episcopal Church.

School Classroom Study Readied

COLUMBUS (P)—A six-man Ohio legislative committee, headed by Sen. Raymond Hildbrand (R-Lucas), has been appointed to study legislation on building and leasing school classrooms.

House Speaker Roger Cloud (R-Logan), who announced the appointments yesterday, said present laws contain "no mechanics" to put part of a recently approved $150 million bond issue to use. The money would be used for classrooms in financially distressed school districts.

Tobacco Auction Starting Today In Ripley Area

RIPLEY, Ohio (P)—The familiar chant of the tobacco auctioneer will be heard today as the annual burley sales get underway.

About 24 million pounds of tobacco worth a million dollars were stacked in the city's four warehouses. The crop is light in color with a large percentage of popular smoking leaf.

Last season Ohio and Kentucky growers selling at Ripley were paid $6,355,053 for 12,708,746 pounds, an average of $50.01 for 100 pounds. Sales this year are expected to hit a medium of $50 a hundredweight.

The government support price is $46.20, a cut of 20 cents from last year's guarantee.

Higginsport, about 10 miles west of Ripley on the Ohio River, is considered the birthplace of white burley, now extensively cultivated in an eight state area. Ripley is the only burley sales outlet in Ohio. Last year it ranked among the first 20 of the 60 markets in the burley belt in sales, average and money paid.

The auctions continue until Dec. 21 and then resume Jan. 3.

Hunter Scores

KERRVILLE, Tex. (P)—Johnnie Anderson has been on crutches since a fall last month. Came hunting season and his friends built him a blind equipped with a rocking chair. Sunday he shot a fat turkey gobbler. Yesterday he rocked on and bagged a deer.

State Employee Deductions OK'd

COLUMBUS (P)—Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill has ruled that deductions should be made from the pay of state employees who are absent from work without leave and paid on a monthly basis.

The opinion said monthly pay rates are based on fulltime service.

The question involved a recently effective law providing a 40-hour week for state employees. The new law also provided for overtime, or compensatory time off, for service in excess of 40 hours.

O'Neill said department heads should make deductions for unauthorized absences by any rule that reasonably relates the time lost to the amount of work required under the 40-hour week provision.

CIO-AFL Merger, Its Meaning

Meany Says Labor Combine Due To Play Political Role

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles by a veteran labor reporter to what to expect from the merger of the CIO and AFL labor organizations.

By NORMAN WALKER
NEW YORK (AP)—The first man to concede that the AFL-CIO merger will tend to concentrate and broaden organized labor's economic and political powers is George Meany, who will boss the job.

But Meany says the powers will be used to benefit the nation as a whole. Economically, he argues that unions have won much of the nation's present prosperity by increasing worker purchasing power and that the merger will be aimed at advancing that cause.

Politically, he says: "Fears have been expressed that there will be too much power, too much concentration of power, and that it might be used politically. Well, in my book it will be used politically."

"Not with the idea in mind of running the country, not with the idea in mind of seeking public office for trade unionists — although there is nothing wrong with that, we have some pretty good ones—but with the idea of continuing the forward march of American labor, getting for American labor the fair share of what we produce.

"Let those who worry about labor's political power remember this: We did not choose the battleground, this political battleground. If they can pass laws that can hamstring, weaken and destroy the trade union movement, then our place to defend ourselves is in the same halls where they passed those laws."

Meany has recognized that misuse of increased labor power may be countered by new legislative curbs against unions. He has counseled that union powers must be used wisely or face that consequence.

The merger, which becomes effective next week, will throw together 108 AFL unions and 30 CIO unions into one federation. The CIO group is to remain intact as a Department of Industrial Organizations within the new federation.

Presumably this will leave the CIO free, in the first few years of federation just as happened in 1935 as a body and establish a rival federation just as happened in 1935 when a group of unions withdrew from the AFL to form the CIO. Nobody, however, seems to be worrying now about another schism.

Meany will draw the same $35,000 per year salary as head of the AFL-CIO as he presently receives as AFL president. While this is above the average union leader's salary, it's less than the $50,000 paid to miners chief John L. Lewis or to Teamsters Union President Dave Beck, or the $76,000 received by George Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Little effect of the merger is expected on the forthcoming presidential campaign. For the next year or more, the combined AFL-CIO plans codirectors of political activity, one for AFL unions and one for CIO unions. They probably will operate more closely than in the past, however.

A two-year period after the merger has been arranged to perfect the dovetailing of the thousands of state, area and city AFL and CIO organizations, some of which have maintained strong rivalries for years.

They are supposed to merge all down the line and, if they haven't at the end of the two-year period provided, they are to be forced together.

Leaders of the AFL and CIO seem to feel they'll be able to collect more voluntary political contributions from union members under the new setup.

However that turns out, the main union political advantage out of the merger is likely to be that one AFL-CIO organization in each state eventually will have the power to give or withhold substantially all organized labor support. In the past, unions have sometimes diluted their over-all influence—one supporting one candidate while another supports his opponent. Political support of the AFL-CIO thus is likely to be more meaningful and thus courted more by prospective candidates.

Lake Central Line Gets Permanent OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lake Central Airlines has been given permanent operating certificates for 16 cities, six in Ohio, and temporary three-year authority to serve eight other points, four in Ohio.

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday granted Lake Central permanent certification for cities including Columbus, Mansfield, Lima, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio. The airline's temporary certificates apply to Marion, Dover-New Philadelphia, Springfield, and Zanesville, Ohio, and four Indiana cities.

Cincy Enquirer Meeting Planned

CINCINNATI (AP)—Roger Ferger, publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer, says he will call a mass meeting soon of the employee-shareholders and others to discuss the situation which developed after removal of James H. Ratliff as vice-president and secretary.

Ratliff, a columnist and leading force in the movement which led to employees buying the paper, charged in a series of meetings he called last week that "top management" was trying to insure itself of permanent control.

Eugene S. Duffield, assistant publisher, said Ratliff "on two occasions acted without first bringing the matters before the board." Then he added, "it was decided that he should be released from his corporate offices, but not fired."

Molasses Blow Up In Lebanon Tank

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—They joke a lot about the slowness of molasses in cold weather. But there wasn't anything inactive about the 2,500 gallons delivered yesterday at Brant's farm elevator here.

A blast shook the elevator building a few minutes after a tank truck, carrying the molasses, had been unloaded.

Zane Brant, a member of the firm, said the molasses, used in mixing livestock feeds, was found oozing from a concrete tank in the basement. Nearby machinery was covered with the sticky mess.

Brant said the damage would "run into thousands of dollars." He could not explain the explosion.

Mouse Knocks Out Springfield Radio

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—"Mighty Mouse" or one of his country cousins knocked Springfield's radio station WLBY off the air yesterday for 20 minutes and electrocuted himself in the process.

Station officials said a field mouse crawled into a 220-volt transmitter in WLBY's transmitting building outside the city limits. The rodent knocked the station off the air and burned himself up when 1,000 kilowatts of power passed through his body.

sue of about $5 million is contemplated for the parking garage.

Boat, Dock Rent Study Underway

COLUMBUS (AP)—A study committee is looking into a proposed schedule of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources for rentals of boats, docks and cabins at state owned lakes and parks. Sen. Theodore M. Gray (R-Mi.), committee chairman, said members wanted to determine whether the schedule appeared equitable. He said the committee, a branch of the Legislative Service Commission, also wanted to consider whether such schedules should be set by a state department or through legislative action. The study committee will make recommendations for action by the next Legislature.

NEW YORK (AP)—The first man to concede that the AFL-CIO merger will tend to concentrate and broaden organized labor's economic and political powers is George Meany, who will boss the job.

But Meany says the powers will be used to benefit the nation as a whole. Economically, he argues that unions have won much of the nation's present prosperity by increasing worker purchasing power and that the merger will be aimed at advancing that cause.

Politically, he says: "Fears have been expressed that there will be too much power, too much concentration of power, and that it might be used politically. Well, in my book it will be used politically."

"Not with the idea in mind of running the country, not with the idea in mind of seeking public office for trade unionists — although there is nothing wrong with that,

Lake Central Line Gets Permanent OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lake Central Airlines has been given permanent operating certificates for 16 cities, six in Ohio, and temporary three-year authority to serve eight other points, four in Ohio.

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday granted Lake Central permanent certification for cities including Columbus, Mansfield, Lima, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Youngstown, Ohio. The airline's temporary certificates apply to Marion, Dover-New Philadelphia, Springfield, and Zanesville, Ohio, and four Indiana cities.

we have some pretty good ones—but with the idea of continuing the forward march of American labor, getting for American labor the fair share of what we produce.

"Let those who worry about labor's political power remember this: We did not choose the battleground, this political battleground. If they can pass laws that can hamstring, weaken and destroy the trade union movement, then our place to defend ourselves is in the same halls where they passed those laws."

Meany has recognized that misuse of increased labor power may be countered by new legislative curbs against unions. He has counseled that union powers must be used wisely or face that consequence.

The merger, which becomes effective next week, will throw together 108 AFL unions and 30 CIO unions into one federation. The CIO group is to remain intact as a Department of Industrial Organizations within the new federation.

Presumably this will leave the CIO free, in the first few years of federation just as happened in 1935 as a body and establish a rival federation just as happened in 1935 when a group of unions withdrew from the AFL to form the CIO.

Nobody, however, seems to be worrying now about another schism. Meany will draw the same $35,000 per year salary as head of the AFL-CIO as he presently receives as AFL president. While this is above the average union leader's salary, it's less than the $50,000 paid to miners chief John L. Lewis or to Teamsters Union President Dave Beck, or the $76,000 received by George Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

Little effect of the merger is expected on the forthcoming presidential campaign. For the next year or more, the combined AFL-CIO plans codirectors of political activity, one for AFL unions and one for CIO unions. They probably will operate more closely than in the past, however.

A two-year period after the merger has been arranged to perfect the dovetailing of the thousands of state, area and city AFL and CIO organizations, some of which have maintained strong rivalries for years.

They are supposed to merge all down the line and, if they haven't at the end of the two-year period provided, they are to be forced together.

Leaders of the AFL and CIO seem to feel they'll be able to collect more voluntary political contributions from union members under the new setup.

However that turns out, the main union political advantage out of the merger is likely to be that one AFL-CIO organization in each state eventually will have the power to give or withhold substantially all organized labor support. In the past, unions have sometimes diluted their over-all influence—one supporting one candidate while another supports his opponent. Political support of the AFL-CIO thus is likely to be more meaningful and thus courted more by prospective candidates.

Murder Trials Delayed In Troy

TROY (AP)—Miami County Common Pleas Judge David S. Porter has postponed indefinitely the first degree murder trials of Edward McMulle, 28, and Cecil Maddy, 37, both of Greenfield.

The men are accused of the hold-up slaying of Cleveland Chipley, 69, a Troy used furniture dealer, last Dec. 27.

McMulle was scheduled to go on trial yesterday, Maddy on Dec. 2. The absence of a key state witness, Glenn Purdin of Greenfield, whose whereabouts are unknown, forced the postponement.

Cincy Enquirer Meeting Planned

CINCINNATI (AP)—Roger Ferger, publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer, says he will call a mass meeting soon of the employee-shareholders and others to discuss the situation which developed after removal of James H. Ratliff as vice-president and secretary.

Ratliff, a columnist and leading force in the movement which led to employee buying the paper, charged last week that "top management" was trying to insure itself of permanent control.

Eugene S. Duffield, assistant publisher, said Ratliff "on two occasions acted without first bringing the matters before the board." Then he added, "it was decided that he should be released from his corporate offices, but not fired."

Molasses Blow Up In Lebanon Tank

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—They joke a lot about the slowness of molasses in cold weather. But there wasn't anything inactive about the 2,500 gallons delivered yesterday at Brant's farm elevator here.

A blast shook the elevator building a few minutes after a tank truck, carrying the molasses, had been unloaded.

Zane Brant, a member of the firm, said the molasses, used in mixing livestock feeds, was found oozing from a concrete tank in the basement. Nearby machinery was covered with the sticky mess.

Brant said the damage would "run into thousands of dollars." He could not explain the explosion.

COLUMBUS (AP)—The state underground parking commission, set up to supervise building of a 1,200-car garage underneath statehouse grounds, has called a meeting for Dec. 16 to interview engineers who wish to bid on revenue and construction studies.

A representative of a law firm appointed yesterday as commission bond counsel said a bond is

Mouse Knocks Out Springfield Radio

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—"Mighty Mouse" or one of his country cousins knocked Springfield's radio station WLBY off the air yesterday for 20 minutes and electrocuted himself in the process.

Station officials said a field mouse crawled into a 220-volt transmitter in WLBY's transmitting building outside the city limits. The rodent knocked the station off the air and burned himself up when 1,000 kilowatts of power passed through his body.

A suit of about $5 million is contemplated for the parking garage.

Boat, Dock Rent Study Underway

COLUMBUS (AP)—A study committee is looking into a proposed schedule of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources for rentals of boats, docks and cabins at state owned lakes and parks. Sen. Theodore M. Gray (R-Mi.), committee chairman, said members wanted to determine whether the schedule appeared equitable. He said the committee, a branch of the Legislative Service Commission, also wanted to consider whether such schedules should be set by a state department or through legislative action. The study committee will make recommendations for action by the next Legislature.

BRITAIN'S WEAKNESS

WINSTON CHURCHILL once said that he did not become His Majesty's first minister to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire. But the inexorable grind of events kept him in the top seat while a great deal of the empire was liquidated. And that fact has contributed critically to collapse of stability in the Near and Middle East.

Nations in that part of the world are weak, being poor in many resources and based upon feudalistic social systems. When Britain held India its Middle East armies, source of most of Kipling's literature, were a mighty stabilizing factor on the "tribes without the law."

Britain's Egyptian forces, which stemmed the Nazi eastward tide as recently as World War II, kept the peace in the Arab world. But Britain has disbanded both the Indian and the Egyptian armies, leaving a vacuum into which Moscow is gleefully rushing.

The British drew in their horns because the tight little isle no longer had an economic base to support foreign levies. Even billions of dollars of American aid, including the affording of fleet protection in the Mediterranean which Britain could not supply, did not allow the British to maintain their empire lines.

Should the United States have drained itself for far more aid to Britain, permitting that weakening nation to hold lines in far places against communist expansion? That could prove to have been cheap at the price. Whether it would have solved the problem is questionable.

Peoples of the Near and Middle East are irritated by what seems to them to be the United States' support of colonial powers. Our subsidization of British military forces might have intensified their feeling. But British military retirement from the scene certainly has been no strengthening factor.

FREIGHT CAR RECORD

THE CONTINUING industrial boom is resulting in one of the best years in recent history for the railroads. Most companies will make adequate profits this year. In many recent years some railroad companies were in dire straits profitwise.

The extent to which the boom has benefited the railroads is brought out in figures of railroad freight cars on order or to be ordered before the end of the year. The total backlog of car orders on January 1 will be more than 140,000, the largest in history.

Imagine a string of new freight cars extending farther than the distance from New York to Chicago, and it is apparent that the rails are planning for another prosperous year. Railroads do not order 140,000 new freight cars if rail executives fear a letup in freight haulings.

These Days

When most of us think of a policeman, to mind comes a crotchety person who directs traffic or who tells you to move on when you form part of a crowd. When I was a boy on the sidewalks of New York, it was different.

The policeman was an enormous hulk of an Irishman who knew everyone on the block, listened to all their troubles, made peace between husbands and wives, looked after their children so that they would not get into trouble. We had no juvenile delinquents then, just some bad boys and girls and the cop on the beat knew how to take care of them.

True, there were street fights, but we had not yet learned that disrespect for parents and elders was a mark of progress and, therefore, when the cop showed up on the scene, the fight was over.

So the other day, I went down to Washington to attend the commencement exercises of the FBI Academy which does not train FBI agents but consists of classes of local police officers who get a refresher course in the techniques of professionalized policing. This Academy has been in existence about 20 years, and has turned out more than 3,000 students.

One of the speakers on this occasion was a former graduate of this school, Stephen P. Kennedy, who is now Police Commissioner of New York, which is an exceedingly tough job because New York is as large as some countries and contains peoples of every race, color, creed and variety of habits, customs and traditions. Also its terrain, as Kennedy pointed out, makes it a difficult place to police. Also the police force is so frightfully undermanned that there are hardly enough to go around.

It was in this atmosphere that I learned what such men as J. Edgar Hoover and Stephen P. Kennedy mean by professional police. What they mean is that the police have functions to perform as a doctor does and that therefore, a police officer has to maintain law and order without regard to the political fortunes of those who temporarily hold elective office.

In New York, it used to be traditional that when a new police commissioner took office, the Mayor or the head of Tammany Hall would hand him instructions for promotions, out of line, based on political gratitude often unrelated to ability.

In recent years, this has been complicated by political insistence on the virtue of paying off political debts to the so-called racial and religious minorities. By appointing a person to office who came from one of these groups, the politicians were able to show that they were not guilty of racial or religious discrimination, even if the appointee were a dope.

None of this is professional policing and may be responsible for some of the disrespect for law, order, and policing. So these men in the FBI Academy are given a dose of professional training and professional ideals and it is hoped that when they return to their communities, they will be strong enough in spirit to resist the self-serving politicians.

anxiety of those who wonder why a card from Aunt Minnie takes so long to deliver, there is hope from another quarter. Under prodding from post office planners, the New York Transit Authority is weighing use of the subway system to move mail rapidly to the terminals. The subway system is only a half century old. Could a transcontinental tunnel to more mail be in the wind?

But in this age of unlimited scientific progress, with revolutionary change just around the corner, it is a miracle that anyone thought of it.

and be a master of hounds in some Irish hunt. It's a paying job, but you do the paying yourself.

"I'd have a shooting box in Austria, a salmon stream in Scotland, a stud farm in Kentucky, a racing stable in France."

"I'd have my own DC3 plane, so I could fly to India, Africa or Alaska, according to the season or my inclination."

"I'd continue living in Ireland, as I do now, because it's a convenient place for one who likes to push around the parade ground of the world. I'd buy better paintings than I can afford now—a Rembrandt or two, a few Goyas, and some Piero Della Francesca."

"I'd have a half dozen houses. One in Madrid, certainly, one in New York, and several apartments in Paris. No, I wouldn't bother to have a house in Hollywood. I'd stay with friends there."

It would be a merry, merry life, and, in Huston's view at least, a long one.

"I'd never know a moment of boredom," he said. "Life is far too short to become boring. My life span would probably be lengthened. It's only trying to make 20 million that cuts short a man's years. Spending it would be healthy."

Huston may never achieve $20 million in the bank, but he does have a way of making his dream come true.

His latest picture, the 14th of his career, is an example. At the age of 21 he read and was deeply stirred by Melville's tale of the mystic white whale. He decided some day he would film it.

Twenty-eight years later he has achieved the goal. He had earlier hoped to make the film with his father, the late Walter Huston.

"After my father's death," he recalled, "I put away the idea and thought I would never come back to it. But I did. I worked three times as long on it as I did on any other picture, and I think even the college professors will agree I stuck close to the spirit of Melville."

Gregory Peck is starred as Ahab, but some 20 artificial whales played the role of Moby Dick, the white whale Ahab pursued.

"They ranged in size from 6 to 120 feet," said Huston. "Some were hydraulic controlled, some had pneumatic controls, some had electronic controls."

"Some worked marvelously well out of water but were no good in water. Some were almost complete failures. But they all served a purpose. It was a terrific technical problem."

Two of the gigantic homemade monsters, each costing about $20,000, broke their hawsers at sea and never were found. Presumably they are somewhere wallowing beneath the ocean waves, frightening the innocent denizens of the depths.

Anyone who finds either of the whales presumably is welcome to it. Huston is done with whales for this lifetime.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

IN TIME, Albert came to the conclusion, that, in himself, he could not accomplish his purpose of leading men to perfection. But there was Roger; Roger whose personality attracted where his repelled; who warmed where he chilled; who, less intelligent than Albert, had always been far more influenced by him than he realized. So Roger became the instrument through whom Albert worked. And Roger, warped by childhood loneliness and emotional insecurity, had tried to be the man Albert expected him to be.

"I was incredibly blind," Jane said. "It was years before I realized fully what was happening to Roger and by then I could not do anything. If I had tried to make him see that he had become unreal, a puppet of Albert's, I'd have only destroyed him. Because he had to be believed in and I could not believe in him any more. I tried and tried but, because we loved each other so much, he knew. And at last the only way I could help him was to get out of his life."

That, Jane added grimly, had been Albert's biggest triumph, for now Roger was his to develop as he chose.

"That's why Albert refused to see me when I came back. He was afraid because we had always been wary of each other, in a way."

"David and Goliath," Lois said suddenly. "How did it happen, Jane?"

"Clyde came home and Albert saw the resemblance and knew he was Roger's son. Knew that Roger had sinned and deceived him. Knew that the image he had molded with his own hands to worship was not perfect. And Albert never learned to tolerate imperfection. Just as he had abandoned his churches, so he destroyed the image."

"In a way, Paula precipitated this. Albert went to see Roger one night and through the window he got a fine view of Paula in the cottage. Evidently the little fool was making quite a nuisance of herself. Albert was profoundly shocked. His idol was making love to his wife's niece. Immorality. Sin. He went for Shandy's revolver and shot through the window. A kind of a symbol of a thunderbolt from Heaven. A divine warning. But that act of violence, what he regarded as a kind of divine authority, released something in him. Two nights later he went to talk to Roger, to reason with him, and found him drunk. Another sin. And that is when he smashed the image. He turned on the gas and when he knew Roger was dead he collapsed.

"Bessie put him to bed and took away his clothes. But by that time Albert was re-creating his Roger again. A Roger who could never fall shot of his dreams. It seemed to him quite natural for Doc and Carol to conceal the execution, I suppose it appeared to him. Nothing must diminish Roger's reputation. And then you came unexpectedly, before the cottage had been touched. You wondered. And Albert was wild because Bessie kept him hors de combat. So he locked his door to keep her from discovering he wasn't there and he went prowling at night, wearing that black velvet housecoat to hide his light pajamas. It wasn't until Doc said Roger had killed himself that Bessie guessed the truth. Until then she had believed in the heart attack. At first she was afraid Clyde had killed Roger out of jealousy. Then at the last she saw, as Clyde saw, and they both tried to protect him."

"But why shoot Dr. Thomas?" "Because Roger's wife must be faithful to his memory."

"And why—me?" Lois asked. "Because you wouldn't let go. You were determined to find out the truth. And you have a kind of awareness about people. Sooner or later you would know. As you did know."

Lois nodded. "But I didn't believe it, if that makes sense. What will they do to him?"

"I don't know. There's not much concrete evidence. No fingerprints on the gun or on the gas jet. Only a torn scrap of black velvet caught on the gate and the housecoat Albert was wearing with the tear in it. That's not actually much of a clue. Because Doc won't talk about Roger's death; he'll never change his evidence. He won't accuse anyone of shooting him. In the first place, he'd have to tell why. And anyhow he didn't actually see Albert with the gun in his hand. No one did. Albert stood in the dark hallway in that black velvet robe. He was practically invisible."

"But where did he get the gun?" "He buried it on the terrace after shooting through the window. Paula found it and left it in the house. Bessie took it to her cottage to keep anyone else from being hurt. There Albert found it again."

"Poor Bessie! They won't let her see Albert, you know. She tried to smother him to save him from a trial and they are afraid she'll find a way out for him yet. She sacrificed her son to him and now she has lost them both. I've got Clyde a job in New York and he's going to live at my apartment until he finds a place of his own."

Lois closed a suitcase, locked it and straightened up. As she looked around the cluttered room she grimaced. "Of all the demoralizing experiences, moving is the worst."

"Where are you and Shandy going to live?"

"Carol is selling the house back to Shandy for an outrageous price, going to greener pastures, and we'll live there when we get back from South America."

"Your Shandy," Jane remarked, "caused me some bad moments. The day you came to see me at the inn, Joe Hattery had just left. He knew I was fond of Shandy and he intimidated I'd better persuade him to play ball. I sent for Shandy and we talked it over."

"So that's where he was when Paula was lost? You know, Jane, the Hatterys—"

"I know," Jane agreed. "Ethel Hattery is the worst danger Albert has to face. She hates him for killing Roger. If he is convicted it will be largely her doing."

"The telephone rang and Lois answered it eagerly, hoping it would be Shandy. Over the telephone Mignonne said firmly, "Lois, about that new assignment, Murray Gilbert, the book collector, wants you to do a story on his collection. You'll love it."

"No," Lois said. "No."

Someone ran up the steps, tapped at the door. Shandy came in. "Sorry, Mignonne," Lois said. "I have another assignment."

THE END

Byron. His own publisher, for instance, admitted candidly, "I was often very glad to get rid of him." It seems that Byron was wont to fence with imaginary opponents,

DIET AND HEALTH

Special Shoes May Help Correct Tot's Flat Feet

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

GENERALLY, you can tell whether your youngster has flat feet by the way he walks.

When he walks correctly, his weight falls on the front and outer edges of his feet and toes point straight ahead.

Ankle Will Bulge

If he is flat-footed, however, his feet will turn out. His ankle will bulge a little on the inner side and the tendon at the back of his lower leg will be curved instead of straight.

A child develops flat feet when his muscles are not strong enough to support his weight properly, possibly because of rickets. With weak muscles, the weight is thrown on the inner edges of his feet. This causes them to point outward and gradually become flat.

I suggest you consult your doctor as soon as you notice that your tot's feet are beginning to face outward. He probably won't do much until the child is about the age of two. Then, he will undoubtedly recommend special shoes.

The heels of these shoes should be built up from one-eighth to one-quarter of an inch on the inner edge. The upper portion of the inner side of the shoe should be stiffened. Properly fitted, the shoes will probably be a great benefit to the child.

Are They Pigeon-Toed?

Parents often wonder whether their children are pigeon-toed, but few of them have to worry about this. Until he is two years old, a child may walk with his toes turned slightly inward. Generally, when he becomes a little older his feet will point straight ahead in the normal way.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A. S. R.: What causes warts and how can one get rid of them?

Answer: The cause of warts is not known, but it is possible that some of them may be due to an infection.

Some types of warts may be removed by cauterizing them with acetic acid, or by freezing them with carbon dioxide snow. Others may be removed by the application of nitric acid, or by means of an electric needle.

An examination should be made to determine the type of wart present before treatment is employed.

He Only Wants $20 Million --By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—John Huston, a zestful fellow who plays at his work and works at his play, believes he would live longer if he had $20 million.

The lanky film director, who recently completed a $4 million version of Herman Melville's whaling classic, "Moby Dick," said he wouldn't quit movie making even if a leprechaun suddenly showered $20 million on him—an amount Huston feels would enable a man to live graciously.

"I wouldn't retire yet," he remarked. "I look on making pictures as play. To me it's fun."

"But with 20 million I'd find time to do more of the things I haven't got around to. I shot a tiger this year, but I'd like to go back to India and spear a wild boar from horseback. I haven't done that yet."

Here is how Huston, a man who loves simple elegance, would live if he had that $20 million:

But the inexorable grind of events kept him in the top seat while a great deal of the empire was liquidated. And that fact has contributed critically to collapse of stability in the Near and Middle East.

Nations in that part of the world are weak, being poor in many resources and based upon feudalistic social systems. When Britain held India its Middle East armies, source of most of Kipling's literature, were a mighty stabilizing factor on the "tribes without the law."

Britain's Egyptian forces, which stemmed the Nazi eastward tide as recently as World War II, kept the peace in the Arab world. But Britain has disbanded both the Indian and the Egyptian armies, leaving a vacuum into which Moscow is gleefully rushing.

The British drew in their horns because the tight little isle no longer had an economic base to support foreign levies. Even billions of dollars of American aid, including the affording of fleet protection in the Mediterranean which Britain could not supply, did not allow the British to maintain their empire lines.

Should the United States have drained itself for far more aid to Britain, permitting that weakening nation to hold lines in far places against communist expansion? That could prove to have been cheap at the price. Whether it would have solved the problem is questionable.

Peoples of the Near and Middle East are irritated by what seems to them to be the United States' support of colonial powers. Our subsidization of British military forces might have intensified their feeling. But British military retirement from the scene certainly has been no strengthening factor.

FREIGHT CAR RECORD

THE CONTINUING industrial boom is resulting in one of the best years in recent history for the railroads. Most companies will make adequate profits this year. In many recent years some railroad companies were in dire straits profitwise.

The extent to which the boom has benefited the railroads is brought out in figures of railroad freight cars on order or to be ordered before the end of the year. The total backlog of car orders on January 1 will be more than 140,000, the largest in history.

Imagine a string of new freight cars extending farther than the distance from New York to Chicago, and it is apparent that the rails are planning for another prosperous year. Railroads do not order 140,000 new freight cars if rail executives fear a letup in freight haulings.

These Days

When most of us think of a policeman, to mind comes a crotchety person who directs traffic or who tells you to move on when you form part of a crowd. When I was a boy on the sidewalks of New York, it was different.

The policeman was an enormous hulk of an Irishman who knew everyone on the block, listened to all their troubles, made peace between husbands and wives, looked after their children so that they would not get into trouble. We had no juvenile delinquents then, just some bad boys and girls and the cop on the beat knew how to take care of them.

True, there were street fights, but we had not yet learned that disrespect for parents and elders was a mark of progress and, therefore, when the cop showed up on the scene, the fight was over.

So the other day, I went down to Washington to attend the commencement exercises of the FBI Academy which does not train FBI agents but consists of classes of local police officers who get a refresher course in the techniques of professionalized policing. This Academy has been in existence about 20 years, and has turned out more than 3,000 students.

One of the speakers on this occasion was a former graduate of this school, Stephen P. Kennedy, who is now Police Commissioner of New York, which is an exceedingly tough job because New York is as large as some countries and contains peoples of every race, color, creed and variety of habits, customs and traditions. Also its terrain, as Kennedy pointed out, makes it a difficult place to police. Also the police force is so frightfully undermanned that there are hardly enough to go around.

It was in this atmosphere that I learned what such men as J. Edgar Hoover and Stephen P. Kennedy mean by professional police. What they mean is that the police have functions to perform as a doctor does and that therefore, a police officer has to maintain law and order without regard to the political fortunes of those who temporarily hold elective office.

In New York, it used to be traditional that when a new police commissioner took office, the Mayor or the head of Tammany Hall would hand him instructions for promotions, out of line, based on political gratitude often unrelated to ability.

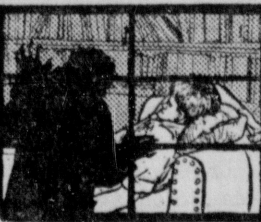

In recent years, this has been complicated by political insistence on the virtue of paying off political debts to the so-called racial and religious minorities. By appointing a person to office who came from one of these groups, the politicians were able to show that they were not guilty of racial or religious discrimination, even if the appointee were a dope.

None of this is professional policing and may be responsible for some of the disrespect for law, order, and policing. So these men in the FBI Academy are given a dose of professional training and professional ideals and it is hoped that when they return to their communities, they will be strong enough in spirit to resist the self-serving politicians.

anxiety of those who wonder why a card from Aunt Minnie takes so long to deliver, there is hope from another quarter. Under prodding from post office planners, the New York Transit Authority is weighing use of the subway system to move mail rapidly to the terminals. The subway system is only a half century old. Could a transcontinental tunnel to move mail be in the wind?

But in this age of unlimited scientific progress, with revolutionary change just around the corner, it is a miracle that anyone thought of it.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

IN TIME, Albert came to the conclusion, that, in himself, he could not accomplish his purpose of leading men to perfection. But there was Roger; Roger whose personality attracted where his repelled; who warmed where he chilled; who, less intelligent than Albert, had always been far more influenced by him than he realized. So Roger became the instrument through whom Albert worked. And Roger, warped by childhood loneliness and emotional insecurity, had tried to be the man Albert expected him to be.

"I was incredibly blind," Jane said. "It was years before I realized fully what was happening to Roger and by then I could not do anything. If I had tried to make him see that he had become unreal, a puppet of Albert's, I'd have only destroyed him. Because he had to be believed in and I couldn't believe in him any more. I tried and tried but, because we loved each other so much, he knew. And at last the only way I could help him was to get out of his life."

That, Jane added grimly, had been Albert's biggest triumph, for now Roger was his to develop as he chose.

That's why Albert refused to see me when I came back. He was afraid because we had always been wary of each other, in a way."

"David and Goliath," Lois said suddenly. "How did it happen, Jane?"

"Clyde came home and Albert saw the resemblance and knew he was Roger's son. Knew that Roger had sinned and deceived him. Knew that the image he had molded with his own hands to worship was not perfect. And Albert never learned to tolerate imperfection. Just as he had abandoned his churches, so he destroyed the flawed image."

"In a way, Paula precipitated all this. Albert went to see Roger one night and through the window he got a fine view of Paula in the cottage. Evidently the little foot was making quite a nuisance of herself. Albert was profoundly shocked. His idol was making love to his wife's niece. Immorality. Sin. He went for Shandy's revolver."

Special Shoes May Help Correct Tot's Flat Feet

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

GENERALLY, you can tell whether your youngster has flat feet by the way he walks.

When he walks correctly, his weight falls on the front and outer edges of his feet and toes point straight ahead.

Ankle Will Bulge

If he is flat-footed, however, his feet will turn out. His ankle will bulge a little on the inner side and the tendon at the back of his lower leg will be curved instead of straight.

A child develops flat feet when his muscles are not strong enough to support his weight properly, possibly because of rickets. With weak muscles, the weight is thrown on the inner edges of his feet. This causes them to point outward and gradually become flat.

I suggest you consult your doctor as soon as you notice that your tot's feet are beginning to face outward. He probably won't do much until the child is about the age of two. Then, he will undoubtedly recommend special shoes.

The heels of these shoes should be built up from one-eighth to one-quarter of an inch on the inner edge. The upper portion of the inner side of the shoe should be stiffened. Properly fitted, the shoes will probably be a great benefit to the child.

Are They Pigeon-Toed?

Parents often wonder whether their children are pigeon-toed, but few of them have to worry about this. Until he is two years old, a child may walk with his toes turned slightly inward.

Generally, when he becomes a little older his feet will point straight ahead in the normal way.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

A S. R.: What causes warts and how can one get rid of them?

Answer: The cause of warts is not known, but it is possible that some of them may be due to an infection.

Some types of warts may be removed by cauterizing them with acetic acid, or by freezing them with carbon dioxide snow. Others may be removed by the application of nitric acid, or by means of an electric needle.

An examination should be made to determine the type of wart present before treatment is employed.

He Only Wants $20 Million --By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—John Huston, a zestful fellow who plays at his work and works at his play, believes he would live longer if he had $20 million.

The lanky film director, who recently completed a $4 million version of Herman Melville's whaling classic, "Moby Dick," said he wouldn't quit movie making even if a leprechaun suddenly showered $20 million on him—an amount Huston feels would enable a man to live graciously.

"I wouldn't retire yet," he remarked. "I look on making pictures as play. To me it's fun."

"My real occupation in life is fox hunting—and shooting."

"But with 20 million I'd find time to do more of the things I haven't got around to. I shot a tiger this year, but I'd like to go back to India and spear a wild boar from horseback. I haven't done that yet."

Here is how Huston, a man who loves simple elegance, would live if he had that $20 million:

"I'd have a castle in Ireland and be a master of hounds in some Irish hunt. It's a paying job, but you do the paying yourself."

"I'd have a shooting box in Austria, a salmon stream in Scotland, a stud farm in Kentucky, a racing stable in France."

"I'd have my own DC3 plane, so I could fly to India, Africa or Alaska, according to the season or my inclination."

"I'd continue living in Ireland, as I do now, because it's a convenient place for one who likes to push around the parade ground of the world. I'd buy better paintings than I can afford now—a Rembrandt or two, a few Goyas, and some Piero Della Francesca."

"I'd have a half dozen houses. One in Madrid, certainly, one in New York, and several apartments in Paris. No, I wouldn't bother to have a house in Hollywood. I'd stay with friends there."

It would be a merry, merry life, and, in Huston's view at least, a long one.

"I'd never know a moment of boredom," he said. "Life is far too short to becoming boring. My life span would probably be lengthened. It's only trying to make 20 million that cuts short a man's years. Spending it would be healthy."

Huston may never achieve $20 million in the bank, but he does have a way of making his dream come true.

His latest picture, the 14th of his career, is an example. At the age of 21 he read and was deeply stirred by Melville's tale of the mystic white whale. He decided some day he would film it.

Twenty-eight years later he has achieved the goal. He had earlier hoped to make the film with his father, the late Walter Huston.

"After my father's death," he recalled, "I put away the idea and thought I would never come back to it. But I did. I worked three times as long on it as I did on any other picture, and I think even the college professors will agree I stuck close to the spirit of Melville."

Gregory Peck is starred as Ahab, but some 20 artificial whales played the role of Moby Dick, the white whale Ahab pursued.

"They ranged in size from 6 to 120 feet," said Huston. "Some were hydraulic controlled, some had pneumatic controls, some had electronic controls."

"Some worked marvelously well out of water but were no good in water. Some were almost complete failures. But they all served a purpose. It was a terrific technical problem."

Two of the gigantic homemade monsters, each costing about $20,000, broke their hawsers at sea and never were found. Presumably they are somewhere wallowing beneath the ocean waves, frightening the innocent denizens of the depths.

Anyone who finds either of the whales presumably is welcome to it. Huston is done with whales for this lifetime.

New Bridge Table Cover Can Solve Yule Gift Problem

Having trouble with your gift list?

In a quandary about what to give that guy or gal who has everything?

If your problem pals are bridge players, your gift worries are over. For Santa has come up this year with a brand new bridge table cover that should delight the heart of any bridge fan, and help duffers to become experts.

The new cover is made of white ultran plastic listing in black type the point and honor count bidding of Goren and Culbertson in front of each player. A booklet on bidding is included in the long sleek black tube which provides permanent safekeeping for the cover.

The bridge table cover was designed by a busy California hostess, Mrs. Burt Holloway, who was faced with the problem of entertaining a great number of important business men and their wives.

Noting that many guests ducked a suggestion of bridge, she tried out the new covers, and found interest picked up at once. With the rules in front of them, even amateur bridge players weren't afraid to take a hand.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 55 and my husband is 56. We have been married 30 years. I have been a devoted wife and was a good mother until we lost our only child.

After all these years together, my husband began a flirtation with a younger woman, two years ago. When I discouraged it, he told me that he intended doing as he pleased. He said he would go when he pleased, and return when he pleased; and I was not to interfere with his life in any way.

I was just trying to save our home and our reputation, which is good in the community. Also, it breaks my heart to see him dress in his best and walk out without a word of explanation to me; and I am not to ask any questions.

Where Should She Go

What am I to do? The only solution, as I see it, is to leave him. But the problem is, where could I go, after all these years? We have a fairly comfortable home.

As it happens, I am employed and earn my own livelihood; and have my own car which I bought for myself, and which I keep up. George never offers me money for anything, but neither do I ask for any. So I can't say he refuses to give. What do you think of a situation of this kind, between a married couple our age?

We are both Christians and attend church regularly; and I have been able to endure the ordeal only by praying, and praying again.

R. Y.

DEAR R. Y.: Nine-tenths of the story, concerning what's wrong with your marriage, hasn't been told, it seems to me. Are you deliberately withholding? Or is it that you just don't see the facts in review—and the history of their unfoldment?

This appears to be a case of a couple whose lives have been going apart for years and years; and finally the husband's behavior has taken a turn that makes the tragedy unmistakably clear. Possibly George is trying to compel you to face the reality of a bankrupt relationship, so that you will stop pretending (as you perhaps pretended for years) that "all is well"—or, at any rate, adequate.

An element of hypocrisy is implicit in your argument that you were "just trying to save our home and reputation, which is good in the community"—when you spoke out against his recent dalliance with a younger woman. Maybe he feels he is done with pretending, and wants to live sincerely, even in a wrong cause, before he dies.

George seems as remote from you as if he dwelt in another world, and this kind of estrangement doesn't develop all of a sudden. Nor is it induced by magnetic forces operating outside the field of the married relationship. Rather it has to do with an interpersonal and context of incompatibility, and unconscious hostilities, that prevent the principals from being friendly and candid in dealing with hindrances to good companionship.

Profit In Understanding
And to widen the breach of coldness and misunderstanding, married persons in this predicament often refuse to admit that they have a problem—that they and/or the partner have lost their way. Thus of course they make no real effort (brave, painful, humble and honest) to diagnose and solve the difficulty. And the consequence is tragic in middle age or after—since neurotic maladjustments neglected for years tend to become catastrophically costly to happiness in later life.

Something of the sort has overtaken you and George. And the only profit to be realized by you at this time is a growth of understanding, concerning what happened. One wonders why you've worked for a livelihood, never asking George for money, etc.,—unless to aim at self-sufficiency, or to indicate to him that you aren't a leaver. Which prompts the thought that maybe you outwitted him into marriage, so to speak—corraling him simply because you wanted him intensely at the time, although knowing his heart wasn't in it.

I have two suggestions for you: 1. Read "God's Reach" (Macalaster Park) by Glenn Clark, to get the pitch of regenerative love and total forgiveness of every injury.

2. Unlock your heart to a psychological consultant, to break up the habit of stony self-containment. Ask the Family service in your city for a reference list of specialists.

for the people of the United States

Legislation has been introduced to Congress which would bring up to date Uncle Sam's long out-moded regulations controlling this nation's transportation industry. This is important to you.

This legislation is based on recommendations contained in "The Weeks Report"—the report of President Eisenhower's Advisory Committee on Transport Policy and Organization, composed of the Secretary of Commerce, four other Cabinet members and two other high-ranking government officials.

what did this report say about present transportation conditions ?

"Within the short span of one generation this country has witnessed a transportation revolution";

That the government's failure to adjust its regulatory policy to changed conditions has "borne heavily on the common carrier segment of the transportation industry" and has added greatly to the costs of transportation — costs which must be paid by "the shipper and ultimately the consuming public."

what remedy does the Cabinet Committee recommend ?

"Common carriers . . . be permitted greater freedom, short of discriminatory practices, to utilize their economic capabilities in the competitive pricing of their service".

If you agree...

That each type of carrier should be given the freest opportunity to do the job it can do best, at the lowest reasonable cost, support this legislation.

Canton Pilot Is Tagged As Coach Of Year

Wade Watts Honored For Guiding McKinley To 1955 State Crown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wade Watts, who in three years hoisted Canton McKinley from the football doldrums to the state championship, today was named Ohio's high school coach of the year.

More than 300 sports writers and coaches participating in the 1955 Associated Press poll handed the laurels to the 36-year-old father of three whose Bulldogs defeated 10 straight foes including seven-time state champion Massillon.

In a "sentiment seeking" poll which has nothing to do with the actual selections, Watts was the outstanding choice to coach the Northern All-Stars in the annual North-South game scheduled next August in Canton. Ralph Webster of Columbus East's unbeaten-untied Orientals was the favorite for the South all-star berth after a close fight with Bob Gibson of unbeaten East Liverpool and Gene Slaughter of Jackson.

Watts graduated from Baldwin-Wallace, where he played under his dad, Ray. He started his coaching career in 1940 at Middlebranch in Stark County, then moved to Port Clinton until 1944 when he entered the service.

He piloted the Ashtabula Edgewood team from 1945 to 1947, moved to Kent Roosevelt and then to East Liverpool. In his last 16 games with the Potters he won 15 and tied one, then shifted to McKinley.

With the Bulldogs he opened with a 3-6-1 season, moved to 8-2-0 last year, and then hit the jackpot as he shifted from the modified single wing with an unbalanced line to the modified T-formation.

Watts succeeds Mel Knowlton of Alliance as coach of the year. This marks the third straight campaign the honor has gone to Stark County, Chuck Mather of Massillon's 1953 team having been named.

Back of Watts in the "coach of the year" race, in this order, were Gibson of East Liverpool, Webster of Columbus East, Hilton Murphy of Toledo Devilbiss, Slaughter of Jackson, Mal Mackey of Fremont, and then a tie which bracketed Leo Strang of Upper Sandusky, Bob McNea of Mansfield, Chuck Thackara of Hamilton, Tom Harp of Massillon, and Lou Jullerat of Troy.

Twenty-four coaches were mentioned for the laurels, but Watts was the runaway choice.

The Ohio High School Football Coaches Assn., at its annual meeting here this weekend, will name the north-south coaches and squads. The Associated Press poll for those jobs is merely a "favorite son" race.

Watts, for the north position, was chased to the wire by Murphy and Mackey, with Gil Smith of Van Wert, McNea of Mansfield and

Mighty Oklahoma Is Voted National Grid Championship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Undeclared Oklahoma, winning at the polls in the same whirlwind fashion that it won most of its games, today captured the 1955 national college football championship and the Father J. Hugh O'Donnell Trophy in the 20th annual Associated Press poll.

The bowl-bound Sooners amassed 3,581 points in the season's final AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters. It topped Michigan State by more than 300 points. Maryland, Oklahoma's opponent in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2, finished third.

Oklahoma succeeds Ohio State, Big Ten champion for the second straight year, as winner of the national championship trophy. It is the second time the Sooners have taken the award, named in honor of the late Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, former president of Notre Dame. They also finished first in the 1950

Michigan's Prexy Decries Bowl Madness

DETROIT (AP) — Decrying pre-season ratings of teams and players and emphasis on post-season bowl bids, the University of Michigan's president has called for a curb on what he terms "the accelerated madness" of football.

Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher told 700 at the annual U-M football banquet last night: "I sincerely hope a way is found to preserve the game in its proper college setting, so that we won't have to alter it—as I am sure we will have to do if our present course continues."

Hatcher said he read "with sinking heart" magazine reports which rated Michigan No. 1 in the nation before it had played its first game this year and other articles which forecast conference championships bowl bids months ahead.

Michigan ended up with a 7-2 record. A 17-0 loss to Ohio State in the final game cost the Wolverines the Big Ten championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl.

Citing newspaper reports of last Saturday's games emphasizing bowl bids, Dr. Hatcher said: "Coveted Bids," they are called. Here's another: "Army knocks Navy out of Cotton Bowl." And one says: "Tennessee ruins Vanderbilt's bowl hopes."

"There was a time when football games were played to see who would win. Now everything points to the 'coveted bid' to a bowl. "Unless something is done, this may lead us farther astray."

Others finishing in the top 10 were UCLA, which will meet Michigan State in the Rose Bowl, Ohio State, Texas Christian, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Notre Dame and Mississippi.

Other previous winners of the O'Donnell Trophy were Michigan, Notre Dame, Tennessee, Michigan State and Maryland.

Columbus Jets Shun Bid By AA

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Columbus Jets have turned down a bid by the American Association for the Jets to rejoin that league.

The association asked the International League to pass on the request to the Jets at yesterday's International League session at the winter baseball meeting.

Columbus was a member of the association for many years before joining International last year.

Jet general manager Harold Cooper said it was his understanding the league rejected the association bid even before it reached Columbus officials.

"We are very happy in the International League and we intend to stay there," Cooper said.

Canton Pilot Is Tagged As Coach Of Year

Wade Watts Honored For Guiding McKinley To 1955 State Crown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wade Watts, who in three years hoisted Canton McKinley from the football doldrums to the state championship, today was named Ohio's high school coach of the year.

More than 300 sports writers and coaches participating in the 1955 Associated Press poll handed the laurels to the 36-year-old father of three whose Bulldogs defeated 10 straight foes including seven-time state champion Massillon.

In a "sentiment seeking" poll which has nothing to do with the actual selections, Watts was the outstanding choice to coach the Northern All-Stars in the annual North-South game scheduled next August in Canton. Ralph Webster of Columbus East's unbeaten-united Orientals was the favorite for the South all-star berth after a close fight with Bob Gibson of unbeaten-united East Liverpool and Gene Slaughter of Jackson.

Watts graduated from Baldwin-Wallace, where he played under his dad, Ray. He started his coaching career in 1940 at Middlebranch in Stark County, then moved to Port Clinton until 1944 when he entered the service.

He piloted the Ashtabula Edgewood team from 1945 to 1947, moved to Kent Roosevelt and then to East Liverpool. In his last 16 games with the Potters he won 15 and tied one, then shifted to McKinley.

With the Bulldogs he opened with a 3-6-1 season, moved to 8-2-0 last year, and then hit the jackpot as he shifted from the modified single wing with an unbalanced line to the modified T-formation.

Watts succeeds Mel Knowlton of Alliance as coach of the year. This marks the third straight campaign the honor has gone to Stark County, Chuck Mather of Massillon's 1953 team having been named.

Back of Watts in the "coach of the year" race, in this order, were Gibson of East Liverpool, Webster of Columbus East, Hilton Murphy of Toledo Devilbiss, Slaughter of Jackson, Mal Mackey of Fremont, and then a tie which bracketed Leo Strang of Upper Sandusky, Bob McNea of Mansfield, Chuck Thackara of Hamilton, Tom Harp of Massillon, and Lou Jullerat of Troy.

Twenty-four coaches were mentioned for the laurels, but Watts was the runaway choice. The Ohio High School Football Coaches Assn., at its annual meeting here this weekend, will name the north-south coaches and squads. The Associated Press poll for those jobs is merely a "favorite son" race.

Watts, for the north position, was chased to the wire by Murphy and Mackey, with Gil Smith of Van Wert, McNea of Mansfield and

Mighty Oklahoma Is Voted National Grid Championship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Undefeated Oklahoma, winning at the polls in the same whirlwind fashion that it won most of its games, today captured the 1955 national college football championship and the Father J. Hugh O'Donnell Trophy in the 20th annual Associated Press poll.

The bowl-bound Sooners amassed 3,581 points in the season's final AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters. It topped Michigan State by more than 300 points. Maryland, Oklahoma's opponent in the Orange Bowl Jan. 2, finished third.

Oklahoma succeeds Ohio State, Big Ten champion for the second straight year, as winner of the national championship trophy. It is the second time the Sooners have taken the award, named in honor of the late Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, former president of Notre Dame. They also finished first in the 1950

Michigan's Prexy Decries Bowl Madness

DETROIT (AP) — Decrying season ratings of teams and players and emphasis on post-season bowl bids, the University of Michigan's president has called for a curb on what he terms "the accelerated madness" of football.

Dr. Harlan H. Hatcher told 700 at the annual U-M football banquet last night:

"I sincerely hope a way is found to preserve the game in its proper college setting, so that we won't have to alter it—as I am sure we will have to do if our present course continues."

Hatcher said he read "with sinking heart" magazine reports which rated Michigan No. 1 in the nation before it had played its first game this year and other articles which forecast conference championships bowl bids months ahead.

Michigan ended up with a 7-2 record. A 17-0 loss to Ohio State in the final game cost the Wolverines the Big Ten championship and a trip to the Rose Bowl.

"Where Service Predominates"

FOLGER'S GIVES YOU MORE FLAVOR PER CUP

... the richer, more satisfying flavor that comes only from skillful blending and roasting of Mountain-Grown coffees

For breakfast, there's nothing like the heart-warming lift of freshly brewed Folger's Coffee, because you get so much more vigorous flavor, so much more lively coffee goodness in every single cup.

Folger's, you see, selects only the finest coffees, Mountain-Grown coffees that are naturally more flavorful. They blend and prepare them with a unique century-old Folger "touch" that produces not only a richer flavor, but a truly distinctive flavor no other coffee can match.

Tomorrow morning, taste and see what a delicious difference Folger's richer flavor makes!

DeMarco Gaining Favor In Match

BOSTON (AP)—For a fellow who took a sound shellacking from Carmen Basilio the last time around, DeMarco fairly breathes confidence. Tony is sure he is going to take back the 147-pound title from Basilio tomorrow night.

The confidence in DeMarco's camp seems to have spread around the city. The odds, which had favored the 28-year-old Basilio by 9-5, have dropped to 7-5. Many here believe it will be 6-5 and pick 'em by ring time.

The fight will be televised.

Tangerine Bowl Opponents Named

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Two powerful small college football teams, Missouri Valley and Juniata, will play in the 10th annual Tangerine Bowl game here Jan. 2.

Missouri Valley was selected last night. Juniata College, of Huntington, Va., was picked Friday.

CHS Meets Athens In Season Opener

Tiger Cagers May Pack Power With Many Returnees In Action

Circleville High School's cagers open their 1955-56 basketball season tonight as they entertain the Athens Bulldogs. First game is at 7 p. m.

Last year in the opener, Athens squeaked by on a 55-54 victory. But for those who believe in omens, Athens also won the first football game in the 1954 season when CHS had a bad grid season; when the Tigers beat Athens in the football opener this year, they went on to a successful season.

CHS coach Red Courtney will have many of last year's team back. And judging by their play last Friday night during the "Meet The Team" event, the Tigers may pack plenty of scoring power this season.

Circleville will field more height than last season and will have good reserve strength, according to Courtney. He said he was pleased with last week's scrimmage against Watkins Memorial.

THE TIGERS looked good on their passing, which is something they were woefully weak on last season. Also, they were able to rebound to great advantage, use the fast break and were able to work the ball under the basket and score almost at will.

Courtney said the boys "still have a lot of work to do." However, he added that the boys seem to have come along fast for so early in the season. Courtney also noted that the spirit seems to be high "as it was all last year in spite of all the losses."

Circleville High School officials are planning to go all out to promote basketball to the fans this season. A number of projects are being discussed to enliven interest here, due to the fact that few people bother to come to the beautiful gym to give encouragement to the boys.

Johnson Collects TKO Over McNeece

NEW YORK (AP)—Light-heavy Tony Johnson stopped Billy McNeece with an eighth round TKO here last night in a TV bout.

The scheduled 10-rounder came to a halt at 2:06 of the eighth, with Johnson peppering McNeece against the ropes.

The last time the two New Yorkers met, they wound up in a 10-round draw. This time, Johnson had it all the way. He was ahead on all three cards when the referee stepped in to end it.

CHS coaches noted that the Tigers always put up a good fight last season although they were smaller than their opponents. They added that many of the games were won on height alone.

The Kittens, CHS's reserves, also made a good showing last week. Coach Dick Boyd said he thinks they will give a good account of themselves this season.

TO FURTHER solidify future basketball prospects, CHS for the first time is featuring a freshman squad. The ninth graders will be under the coaching of Art Thompson. Al Gabriel will continue to work with the junior high cagers.

Only by filling the gym will the boys feel that it will be worth while winning, according to school officials. They ask, "Why not make it a promise to bring along at least one friend to each game?"

The CHS "pep band" will also be on hand.

Bucks, Irish To Dominate Eastern Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—A trio of players from both Ohio State and Notre Dame have been named to the East team for the annual Shrine charity game in San Francisco Dec. 31.

From Ohio State will be Howard Cassidy, center Ken Vargo and tackle Francis Mackinsky. From Notre Dame: fullback Don Schaefer, center Jim Mense and tackle Ray Lemek.

The West team will be announced later.

Coaches Woody Hayes of Ohio State, Rip Engle of Penn State and Stu Holcomb of Purdue will direct the East team.

The East team also includes:

Fullback: Joe Childress of Auburn.

Halfbacks: Leonard Moore of Penn State, Bob Pascal of Duke, William Murawski of Purdue, Tony Branoff to Michigan.

Quarterbacks: Jerry Reichow of Iowa, Em Lindbeck of Illinois.

Center: Frank Reich of Penn State.

Guards: Tom Powell of Colgate, Dick Murley of Purdue, Calvin Jones of Iowa, Jim Buonopane of Holy Cross.

Tackles: Joe Krupa of Purdue, Otto Kneidinger of Penn State.

Ends: Will Frye of North Carolina, Sonny Sorrell of Duke, John Bredice of Boston University, Jim Katakavage of Dayton.

Three-Day Season For Deer Hunting Starts Thursday

Deer hunting by shotgun opens Thursday at 9 a. m. and lasts until Saturday at 4 p. m.

Daily limit is one deer. There is no open season in Pickaway County but hunting is permitted in many surrounding areas.

No rifles are permitted. Bow and arrow hunting continues until Dec. 15.

Gator Bowl Foes To Vie Dec. 31

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Auburn and Vanderbilt have been picked as the football teams which will meet in the Gator Bowl Dec. 31.

Sam Butz, chairman of the selection committee, made the announcement.

Auburn has a Southeastern Conference record of 5-1-1 and an overall 8-1-1; Vanderbilt 5-3 and 7-3.

Dodger World Series hero Johnny Podres pitched shutout ball during his last 11 innings against the Yankees. They scored three runs against him in 18 innings but only two were earned.

All Eyes On Iowa Quintet As Big Ten Cagers Open Up

CHICAGO (AP)—Wisconsin opens the Big Ten basketball season Thursday against Butler but all eyes will be on Iowa's defending champions who tangle with Nebraska Saturday in a nationally televised contest.

The Hawkeyes, along with Illinois, are favorites in the upcoming Western Conference campaign which will begin after New Year's Day following warmup tussles against non-conference foes.

Both Iowa and Illinois are loaded with veteran stars and are expected to unveil helpful sophomore talent.

Aside from the top contenders, the rest of the league is expected to engage in a free-for-all for top positions with one guess as good as another.

Iowa has four regulars returning but one of them—Sharm Scheuerman—is a questionable performer because of a kidney injury suffered while playing touch football. A mainstay in the Iowa championship drive last season, Scheuerman has not been working out with the team.

Still available, however, are Carl Cain, Bill Logan, Bill Seaberg and Bill Schoof who was handicapped last season with a knee injury.

Sophomores battling for starting spots are Tom Payne, Gene Pitts and Norm Paul.

Illinois, which had the best overall average among Big Ten teams last season but finished in a second place tie with Minnesota, is deep. If 6-7 center Ted Caiazza can win a starting post, the Illini might jump out in front to stay.

Caiazza, however, will have to push out George BonSalle, one of Coach Harry Combes' top performers last season. Other holdovers are Capt. Paul Judson, Bill Altenberger, Harv Schmidt, Bruce Brothers and 5-9 Bill Ridley, often called basketball's best little man.

The Illini open Dec. 6 against Butler.

Minnesota moves into action against DePaul Saturday without the services of Dick Garmaker and Chuck Mencil, two of the Midwest brightest stars. The Gophers will rebuild around regulars Dave Tucker, Buck Lindsley and 6-11 Bill Simonovich who developed rapidly last winter.

Ohio State, with Robin Freeman back again, is expected to rebound out of the conference cellar. The Buckeyes plunged badly after Freeman was dropped off the team on doctor's orders. OSU opens against Butler Saturday.

Michigan State is the dark horse which could upset championship plans. The Spartans have Julius McCoy and Duane Peterson back and a lot of height in sophomores Max Gonsenbach, Larry Hedden and Chuck Benzie. Michigan State will start late, opening against Southern Illinois Dec. 13.

Indiana finished sixth last season despite the efforts of Don Schlundt, the Big Ten's most prolific scorer. The Hoosiers will be without Schlundt this year but have what could turn out to be the best crop of sophomores in the conference. Ohio University is Indiana's foe Saturday.

Michigan, Purdue, Wisconsin and Northwestern might turn out to be the laggards.

Michigan has Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz—a couple of all conference football ends—back and might fare a little better than the other three. The Wolves open in a tough one against Pittsburgh Saturday.

Wisconsin is without Dick Cable and Northwestern has lost Frank Ehmman and Hal Grant while Purdue will have to rebuild around Joe Sexs. Purdue meets Missouri Saturday and Northwestern goes against Western Michigan.

DeMarco Gaining Favor In Match

BOSTON (AP) — For a fellow who took a sound shellacking from Carmen Basilio the last time around, ex-welterweight champion Tony DeMarco fairly breathes confidence. Tony is sure he is going to take back the 147-pound title from Basilio tomorrow night.

The confidence in DeMarco's camp seems to have spread around the city. The odds, which had favored the 28-year-old Basilio by 9-5, have dropped to 7-5. Many here believe it will be 6-5 and pick 'em by ring time.

Tangerine Bowl Opponents Named

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two powerful small college football teams, Missouri Valley and Juniata, will play in the 10th annual Tangerine Bowl game here Jan. 2.

Missouri Valley was selected last night. Juniata College, of Huntingdon, Va., was picked Friday.

City Schools Head Tells Of U.S. Problem

'Soft Snap' Studies
Lure Engineering,
Science Prospects

By LOUIS FABRO
Herald Staff Writer

Cincinnati city schools superintendent George Hartman said educators throughout the country are becoming increasingly disturbed over the way students are drifting away from the academic or scientific courses in high school.

This nationwide trend, he pointed out, is one of the big reasons why the colleges are graduating fewer scientists and engineers, now in great demand as the world moves along the way of push-button progress and defense planning.

"When they have a choice of curricula," said the superintendent, "students generally take the easier general courses instead of the academic courses, which are generally harder."

Hartman's observation is supported by other educators who even go further and declare that there is too much emphasis placed on the vocational subjects to the neglect of fundamentals, like geometry and Latin, and other so-called "hard" subjects.

JACK FULLEN, secretary of the Ohio State University Alumni Association, in an address here several weeks ago, expressed his views on the increasing shortage of scientific men.

He declared that Russia is ahead of the United States in enrollment in engineering, teaching and other professions. Fullin cited statistics which revealed that Russia last year graduated 43,000 students in the vital field of engineering, as compared to 23,000 graduated in the United States.

Hartman said although the academic courses are relatively harder than other courses of study, they provide better training for a student who desires to enter college.

He noted that graduates of Cincinnati High School who took the academic courses have done very well in college, as attested by letters received from various institutions of higher learning where Cincinnati graduates have continued their education.

Hartman also pointed out that students who did not take the academic courses, or who switched to this curricula after starting in another, did not—as a rule—do as well.

The city schools superintendent stressed the point that Cincinnati High School does offer a good academic course "but students just seem to shy away from it".

Traffic Fatality Brings Indictment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Woodrow Eugene Secrist, 34, of Rt. 2, Newark, was indicted yesterday for second degree manslaughter in the traffic death of Melvin D. Mercer, 51, Columbus.

Secrist was the driver of a car which collided with a truck operated by Mercer at a Columbus intersection Nov. 11. Secrist will be arraigned Friday.

No Execution In 1955 Seen For Ohio Pen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For the first time in 39 years, Ohio Penitentiary is expected to go without an execution in 1955.

Warden Ralph W. Alvis said today "death row" now has five inmates but the next scheduled execution date is Feb. 1, 1956. Three of the five have indefinite stays of execution, he said.

The penitentiary has had 295 electrocutions since 1897, when the first person died in the prison's electric chair, Alvis said. The only other years the "death house" was not used were 1902, 1903, 1906, 1915 and 1916.

Last execution at the prison was on Aug. 6, 1954 when Sam B. Nettles of Toledo died for the double slaying of Mr. and Mrs. William Pegler of Toledo in an attempted robbery of their home.

Samuel W. Tannyhill, 26, of Fremont has been sentenced to die Feb. 1 for the jack-handle slaying of Mrs. Shirley Bradford, 29, a waitress in a Fremont tavern which Tannyhill held up last May 2.

Joseph Allen of Cleveland is slated to die Feb. 20 for the slaying of Barry Joiner and Willard Arnold in Cleveland, Dec. 22, 1951.

Under an indefinite stay of execution in "death row" are Alphonso Cosby, Springfield, Bernard Schreiber, Toledo, and Walter Wilson, Cleveland.

Cosby was given the death sentence for the slaying of a Springfield cab driver last April 2; Schreiber, 18, for the fatal stabbing of Mary J. Freiss, 17, of Toledo, on Aug. 12, 1954; and Wilson for the fatal shooting of Joseph Fena in a Cleveland restaurant last Jan. 19.

Judge Dismisses Middletown Case

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A petition to put all of the income producing property owned by the city of Middletown on the county's tax books was dismissed from Common Pleas Court yesterday.

Fred J. Schatzmann, former city law director, said the city's parking meters, sewers and water mains should be subject to county taxes.

Judge P. P. Boli said Schatzmann should seek aid through the county board of tax revision and the state board of tax appeals before appealing to the Common Pleas Court. Boli dismissed Schatzmann's complaint by sustaining a demurrer filed by auditor R. H. Smith.

Young Hamilton Mother Is Killed In Mystery Case

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Mary Ellen Barger, 19, mother of a 1-year-old girl, walked out of her sister's house last night and was shot to death by an unidentified man.

One witness, not identified by police, said a car with two men drove up to the house. The rider got out of the automobile, put his arm around Mrs. Barger and then a single shot was fired.

Police questioned Mrs. Barger's estranged husband, Milford Barger, employed by a carpenter contractor. Chief John Bippus said Barger's story that he was at home at the time of the shooting was backed by his stepfather. Barger was caring for the couple's daughter pending a divorce suit.

"It's definitely murder," Bippus said, "but we haven't pinned it on anyone yet."
